

NVRC Call for Artist Residencies

North Vancouver Recreation and Culture's (NVRC) Artist Residency program provides unique opportunities for emerging and established artists from various disciplines, cultures and life experiences to create and produce new works of art or develop existing artistic projects.

The program provides staff and marketing support, financial support, and space in a Community Centre, field house or the Centennial Theatre. Residencies can be as short as six weeks and as long as six months with varying schedules. Those accepted to the program are expected to engage with the community in the development of their work through a short performance, workshop or an artist talk.

Artists must be legally eligible to work in Canada, be from Metro Vancouver, or live or work in North Vancouver, provide a clear police information check and hold liability insurance. Please contact us to discuss this in further detail.

To apply please email: artist-residencies@nvrc.ca

Application Deadline: Monday Jan 13, 2025 at 4:00 pm

NVRC's Artist Residency program is built on the understanding and recognition that what is colonially known as North Vancouver is located on the traditional, unceded territories of the Skwxwú7mesh Úxwumixw Squamish Nation, and səlilwətał Tsleil-Waututh Nation. The Nations' oral histories, arts and culture practices, and deep relationships with the lands and waters are respected, as are their current day experiences and cultural, environmental, and economic contributions. In our work, we affirm the importance of working to build better relationships and futures with these two local First Nations and all Indigenous Peoples.

If you require information or a different way of applying, please email us at artist-residencies@nvrc.ca and we will be happy to work with you.
